Review Your Research Subscriptions

Here is a summary of the subscription(s) that you have requested. Before we can activate your subscription(s), you must acknowledge any exchange-required market data agreements and disclosures. Due to regulatory restrictions, your account may be ineligible to trade certain products. Such a restriction does not prohibit you from subscribing to and receiving market data. Should you wish to obtain market data, even for those products you may be ineligible to trade, your account will be subject to the applicable subscription fees.

Customers should be aware that if they have recently changed their market data subscriber status between Professional and Non-Professional, the account may be charged for both the professional and non-professional rates should a new subscription be added during the same month. We will not pro-rate the data.

Requests to unsubscribe to market data which are received after midnight ET will be processed with an effective date of the following day. Customers should be aware that this may impact your subscription costs if you unsubscribe on the last business day of the month.

New Subscriptions- Charged at time of activation

New Constructs - Unlimited Research and Alerts - North America	USD 499.00 / pack

In relation to the fees quoted under pricing - research, news and market data - We retain 5 to 10% of such fees to cover administrative and other costs related to the provision of these data services. The remainder of the fee is paid to the market data vendor.
